DETAILED ACTION

1. The Applicants' amendment filed on October 7, 2005 was received. Claims 1 and 3 are amended. Claims 7-13 are added. Now, Claims 1-13 are pending.
2. Claim rejection(s) under 35 USC 102 and 103 in paragraphs 5 and 7-9 in the previous Office Action (Paper No. 070905) is/are removed.
3. The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office Action (Paper No. 070905).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. Rejection of Claims 3-6 under 35 USC 103(a) as being unpatentable over Melancon (US 6 730 397) in view of Schmidt (US 5 248 739), optionally further as evidenced by De Paolo (US 3 509 241) is maintained because the rejection is adequately set forth in paragraphs 8-9 of Paper No. 070905. The newly added Claims 9 and 13 can be rejected, too. Applicant's arguments have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. The focus argument related to the core patentability is discussed below.

For Applicants' argument (Remarks, page 12, paragraphs 2-6), note that Schmidt does teach the use of an organopolysiloxane in the range of about 800 to 300,000 cps, preferably 10,000 to 100,000 cps. Applicants point out that Schmidt also discloses an organopolysiloxane with a high viscosity up to 100,000,000 mPa.s. However, this high viscosity is based on the neat organopolysiloxane, while the high viscosity of 100,000 mPa.s recited in Claim 3 is a viscosity measured in a 30 wt% solution in toluene. As such, Applicants' organopolysiloxane should have a much higher viscosity in a neat form. (col. 6, lines 1-19) Furthermore, Melancon's HALS reads on Applicants' hindered amine. It should have the same effect as Applicants' hindered amine does. In re Best, 195 USPQ 430 (CCPA 1977).

For Applicants' argument (Remarks, page 13, 1st paragraph), note that Examples 1-5 and Table 1 in the specification merely show the unexpected result upon comparing between the specific hindered amine of Compound I, II or a mixture of Compounds I and III; and Compound III along. For Claim 9, the silanol content of Melancon's silicone tackifying resin is described in col. 2, line 66 to col. 3, line 33. For Claim 13, since the composition of Melancon in view of Schmidt is substantially the same as that of Applicants', both of them should possess similar properties including the characteristics set forth in the instant claim.

5. Claims 1-2, 7-8 and 12 are rejected under 35 USC 103(a) as being unpatentable over Schmidt (US 5 248 739) in view of Carter (US 2003/0082388).

For Claims 1-2 and 7-8, Schmidt discloses a tape comprising a silicone pressure sensitive adhesive that comprises A) a MQ resin, B) a polydiorganosiloxane containing alkenyl groups, C) a crosslinking agent such as organic peroxides. (col. 1, line 66 to col. 2, line 42, col. 3, line 4 to col. 9, line 2, col. 10, lines 33-44 and Examples) The amount of the peroxide is described in col. 7, lines 14-24. Schmidt the viscosity of the organopolysiloxane is described in col. 6, lines 1-19. The M/Q ratio, the Si-H/Si-alkenyl ratio and the amounts of all components are further exemplified in Examples. The amount of the Si-OH group is described in col. 5, lines 5-16. A stabilizer can be used. Schmidt is silent on the specific stabilizer used. However, Carter teaches the use of a HALS in a silicone composition. The motivation is to stabilizing the silicone composition. ([0004]-[0005] and [0023]-[0028]) In light of the benefit mentioned, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention was made to incorporate Carter's HALS into Schmidt's composition. For Claim 12, since the composition of Schmidt in view of Carter is substantially the same as that of Applicants', both of them should possess similar properties including the characteristics set forth in the instant claim.

6. Claims 10-11 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

None of the above references teaches or fairly suggests the use of the specific hindered amines set forth in the instant claims.

7. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a). A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37

Art Unit: 1712

CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
